abilities of to-day's trading and to the significance of the Lustiania epi-sode as it was related to commitments for the long pull. It was taken for granted that there would be a good deal of selling from out-of-town to deset at the hearings of the day. less the news that came out overlight proved to be worse than was expected. What did come into serious consideration was the prospect for continued trade with Europe. If the Lusitania was torpedoed—something that was not certainly known at the time Wall Streeters went home—there was the possibility that the business in war munitions and the still large commerce in the commodities of peace times would be scriously curtailed by the increased risk of transportation across the ocean. That trade has been held responsible for the impetus that domestic business has had to raise itself from the slough of despond.

The rapidity of the decline in the said set hour was made much of, though 110. $6. one specture excitement, must have been typical of those of many others. He put in an order to buy Westinghouse when that stock was around 80 and a few minutes later an order to sell it, the market then being nearer 90. It was not until after the close of the markets that he got his reports, to find himself in, not 8 points or 10, but exactly 's of a point, the aggregate of list buying and selling comments. his buying and selling commissions. His buying order, with the tape twelve minutes behind the market, had been executed at 79% and his selling order at 79%.

Splendid Crop Report.

It was the fate of the government's trop report to go unread. It was made public at 2:15 o'clock, as it always is, here. but just then the stock market was two jumps ahead of the force of grav-lation on its way to China, and about the only thing observed of the crop rethe only thing observed of the crop report was that it contained no news about the Lusitania. Yet it would have proved very good reading for the buildishly inclined. Not in twelve years has there been so small a loss in acreage of winter wheat through winter killing. The outlook is for the biggest crop on record, bigger even than 1914's, when 684,990,000 bushels were harvested. If yesterday's promise is fulfilled, of 17.3 bushels to the see, there will be 693,000,000 bushels for the American farmer to begin harvesting in a few weeks. Spring plough-
